

2017 LIFETIME ACHIEVEMENT AWARD

Paul Edgerton

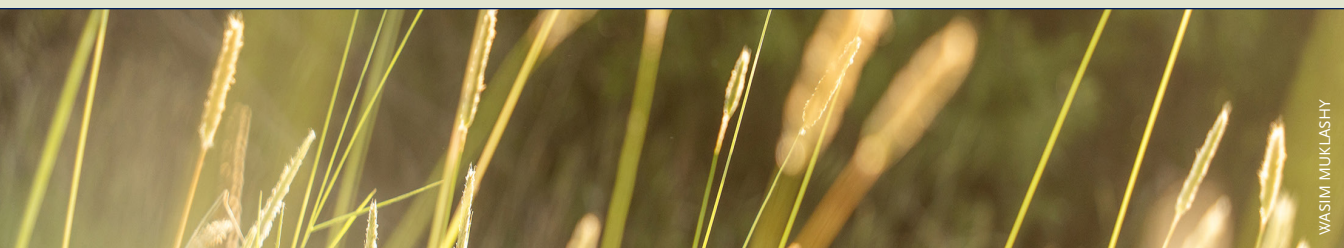

Paul Edgerton has been a Land Trust member and volunteer since 2003. A retired biologist and research ecologist, he possesses a staggering wealth of information about all things “nature.”

Over the years, Paul has dedicated his time as a hike leader, helping with Land Trust events and special projects, and as a consultant for stewardship of our Preserves. To walk with Paul through the woods is to participate in an adventure, a journey full of wonderful stories and musings, and to feel like you’re really opening your eyes, your heart, and your mind to everything around you.

The Land Trust has been extremely fortunate to have Paul as a volunteer for so many years and that is why we chose to recognize him with our 2017 Lifetime Achievement Award. Thanks Paul!
